Bulletin #65: USA military hides behind the IDF identifier

It is common knowledge that the unrelentless Israel support by the USA is dictated by a permanent war agenda under pressure from the military-industrial complex. However, the USA wants and likes to hide behind proxy states, organisations to shake of their eventual responsibility for triggering wars. This is CIA 101. They deny everything that they are the main arsons.

Now why does the USA military hind behind the IDF, the Israel Defence Force identifier in the media and on the internet? To hide behind common key letters as identified on a QWERTY keyboard, but also used in UNIX jargon as df, disk free. The USA wants to terminate history through a focus on contradictions in the digital domain by using ambiguity and abbreviations, problematic in AI, to hide their traces of war that can be traced back in the previous century by the development and introduction of the computer.

Why is there permanent war? Because matter wants to liberate, free itself from extremist human technology, and extremist technology is driven by R&D in the military apparatus and commercial innovations are co-opted by the military for so called geopolitical gains and purposes. But the real underlying military drive is quiet something different from the main narrative of geopolitics.

Permanent war is a war against extremist human technology that causes an technological auto-immune reaction in the form of states in flux and war fighting and destroying each others infrastructure such as the letters of the Alphabet used by UNIX systems for naming and necessity.

The military equation is $I=DF$, whereby $I=I$ is the default tautology that already has undergone identification. $I = ?$

All the names in the world cannot be converge to a single name ($I=?$) that globalists would like to see for their orwellian world government.

Permanent war is a war of naming.

And that sums up the hermeneutic military drive of the USA in the service of globalists.
